

Model for new cathedral

Parishioners of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in Burlington recently heard their pastor, Msgr. Robert Powers announce the completion of plans to re-build the Catholic cathedral. Over 800 people viewed the cathedral model and photos. The previous cathedral, which was dedicated Dec. 8, 1867, burned to the ground on March 13, 1972. The architect, Edward L. Barnes of New York City, was chosen after review of some 50 applicants. It is expected that the expense of rebuilding will come close to $2 million. The present anticipated income from insurance will cover the cost of the project.
