

Proposed Catholic Cathedral

Architect's drawing depicts the proposed Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, looking south from Pearl Street, Burlington. St. Paul Street would be to the far left. Plans call for the one-story structure to be bounded on three sides by honey locust trees, with the skylighted sanctuary situated under the tall portion of the building. (Details, Page 9)